Message From the Chair

Rachel L. Einwohner
CBSM Section Chair
Professor of Sociology
Purdue University

As I type these words from the comfort of my couch, which has served (along with my dining room table) as my office for most of this academic year, I'm thinking about what a long, strange, and painful year this has been. While the pain and strangeness of pandemic life is beginning to ease in the U.S., I'm mindful that COVID-19 still rages in many parts of the world. At the same time, hate, violence, and injustice remain global problems.

Yet our work goes on. In fact, there is so much work to do to understand mobilizations around the world that it is hard to know where to focus our efforts. Regardless of your specific topic, cases, and methods, it is more important than ever that we share our expertise in the study of social movements with others.

One important way we share our expertise is our annual ASA meetings. Our meetings will be virtual this year, as they were in 2020. I will join all of you from my couch and dining room table, as I did last August. I will therefore hold the dubious distinction of being the only CBSM Section Chair in our history to have never had the pleasure of addressing our section in person. But I can live with that, if it means that we are doing our best to keep each other safe. (Continued on Page 2)

Critical Mass Summer Issue:	15

This issue of Critical Mass has important information about our CBSM Section sessions and other activities at the upcoming conference. I'm excited about these sessions and encourage you to attend as many as you can. Most are packed into a single day which can cause a little Zoom fatigue, but the topics and presenters are so interesting and important that I'm sure you'll stay energized. And remember that pets, families, and caffeinated beverages are always welcome on Zoom! In August, I also look forward to welcoming our newly elected section officers and kicking off Rory McVeigh's term as Chair.

A huge thank you to our Critical Mass editors Julia Goldman-Hasbun, Mario Venegas, and Cecelia Walsh-Russo for putting together another wonderful issue. And thanks to everyone for your scholarship, activism, teaching, and mentoring. I look forward to logging on with you in August.

Stay safe and be well,
Rachel

2021 Virtual CBSM Events at ASA

Below is a list of ASA sessions and events that may be of interest to CBSM members. These include both CBSM-sponsored events and events from other ASA sections. If you are participating in a session that is not included in the list below, please email us, and we will include it in our next issue of Critical Mass (released before the conference).

The theme for this year's conference is "Emancipatory Sociology: Rising to the Du Boisian Challenge."

The Virtual Conference will be held from Friday, August 6 to August 10, 2021. Programming hours will run from 11:00 a.m. – 7:30 p.m. Eastern.

Any changes made after June 1st, 2021 are only reflected in the online program. We encourage you to view the full program at: <https://convention2.allacademic.com/one/asa/asa21/>

Note that all times are listed in Eastern Daylight Time.

Highlight your accomplishments for the job market!

Are you going on the sociology job market this year? Do you have students who are going on the market? The CBSM Section of the American Sociological Association (ASA) is publishing a summer issue of Critical Mass to highlight the accomplishments of junior social movements scholars.

The issue will be published in early August, just in time to help generate buzz at the virtual ASA conference.

To publish your profile, please provide the following:

- Name
- Photograph (optional)
- Current affiliation
- List of up to 10 representative publications (including forthcoming publications and works in progress) in ASA or APA format
- 200-word candidate statement in 1st person
- Website and email address

Please send all materials to Critical Mass co-editors Julia Goldman-Hasbun, Mario Venegas, and Cecelia Walsh-Russo at cbsmnews@gmail.com by July 16th, 2021.

NEXT ISSUE

The Summer issue of the Critical Mass Newsletter will highlight junior scholars entering the job market this fall and spotlight additional ASA conference sessions.
